

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

SOCIAL ECONOMY CENTRE WORKSHOP SERIES 2007/2008

MANAGING HUMAN RESOURCES IN NON- PROFIT ORGANIZAITONS

With
KUNLE AKINGBOLA
University of Toronto

It has been suggested that human resource management is more intensive in community organizations. In this sector, human resources are not only the primary asset of organizations; community organizations cannot replace humans with investment in physical capital. Coupled with the pressure to be efficient and strategic, the need to effectively manage human resources must underscore the unique operating environment of non-profits.

Join us in this workshop to:

- Examine various challenges with and strategies for managing human resources in community organizations
- Explore progressive human resources management practices for community organizations
- Align your organization with opportunities in today's changing operating environment

About Kunle Akinbola...

Kunle is a Human Resources Consultant and Adjunct Professor at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education at the University of Toronto with extensive experience in both the non-profit and corporate sector. He has managed and facilitated the development and implementation of HR strategies, policies and negotiation of collective agreements. Kunle's research focus is on strategy, human resources management and labour relations context of non-profit organizations. He has significant experience in recruitment, employee relations, and labour relations. Kunle has a Ph.D. and MA from OISE, University of Toronto and a Masters of Industrial Relations & Personnel Management from the University of Lagos.

FORMAT: An interactive workshop with opportunities to ask questions and tailor the information to your own organization.

DATE: Tuesday, February 26, 2008 - 9:00 am - noon

COST: $100 + GST; Each additional participant from the same organization will receive a $15 discount.

LOCATION: Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, University of Toronto, room 5-175
252 Bloor Street West, Toronto (St. George subway station).

TO REGISTER: Access the online registration form at <http://sec.oise.utoronto.ca/english/workshops.php>, or contact Lisa White at secworkshops@oise.utoronto.ca

Social Economy Website: <http://socialeconomy.utoronto.ca>